

THE BLONDE, THE BRUNETTE AND THE VENGEFUL REDHEAD

By Robert Hewett
Directed by James MacDonald
November 15 – December 7, 2008
Classic Landmarks Mainstage Series
Shoctor Theatre
Starring Fiona Reid

One very desperate housewife and a series of completely unpredictable events.

Life in a quiet neighbourhood is turned upside down when the lives of friends and strangers are woven together and then abruptly torn apart in this mysterious and outrageous Australian play. Nothing is as it seems on the surface of this poignant look at the consequences of love, betrayal and revenge.

In a series of monologues, you'll meet seven wildly diverse characters, all of them played by the extraordinarily talented Fiona Reid. You may never look at your family and friends the same way again.

"Lies, infidelity, betrayal, violent death – and in the end, a kind of redemption."
Toronto Star

"A marvellous, mysterious and often very funny story." The Washington Post

"Intensely compelling and rewarding." Toronto Star

"For the formidable actress, Fiona Reid, to jump at the challenge to perform this Olympian task means we are all in for a memorable theatrical feast." Bob Baker
